FUNERAL HELD IN PARK

Thousands of People Hear Last Sad Rights For Eight Victims of the Murderer's Ax Wednesday Afternoon—Bodies Kept at City Hall

Funeral services for the eight victims of the murderer's ax were held in the open air in the public park at Villisca Wednesday afternoon, June 12, 1912, at three o'clock. Thousands of people witnessed the obsequies. By proclamation of the Mayor, the stores were closed, and all Villisca citizens and many from out of the city paid respectful tribute to the beloved dead. Never in the history of the town, county or state, has there been such a service before, and thousands of fervent prayers are offered today that never again will it be repeated.

The bodies of the eight were removed from the J. B. Moore home Monday night after midnight with Undertakers J. L. Smith and C. N. Fessler of Villisca in charge. They were assisted by A. B. Wolfe of Villisca, L. V. Myers and Sons and Myron Smith of Red Oak and Walter Sellergren of Stanton. It was one of the most grewsome tasks any of the undertakers had experienced, and they are unanimous in hoping that none of them will ever again be called upon to officiate in a similar case.

During the services the bodies lay in caskets in the city hall, and at no time were they exposed to the public view.

Myriads of Flowers

Arranged in a semi-circle, the first casket to the right contained the remains of Lena Stillinger, and then in order were those of Ina Stillinger, J. B. Moore, Mrs. Moore, Herman Moore, Katherine Moore, Boyd Moore and Paul Moore. The caskets were covered with flowers, more profuse perhaps than was ever seen by any of the thousands who attended the services. Besides the vast number contributed by the bereaved relatives and friends, others who sent tokens of their sympathy in this manner were: John Deere Implement company of Omaha, Hirshberg Bros. of Omaha, friends at Clarinda, Rhul Hardware company of Red Oak, the Lincoln school classmates of the children, the business men of the city, the hardware and implement dealers of Villisca, the Presbyterian Sunday school, the Presbyterian Missionary society and the ladies' aid society, the Modern Woodmen of America, the board of education, and ten neighbors of Mrs. G. H. Fisher, who were: Mrs. Farquhar, Mrs. Thomason, Mrs. Watt, Mrs. Copeland, Mrs. Plumly, Mrs. Brenton, Mrs. Tinsley, Mrs. Voiland, Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Osborn.

The ladies in charge of the floral offerings were: Mrs. F. L. Lenhart, Mrs. W. R. Finlayson, Mrs. W. A. Stillians, Mrs. W. B. Woodward, Mrs. E. C. Hough, Mrs. W. J. Ewing, Mrs. J. B. Morris and Mrs. E. N. Myers, the last two having assisted the undertakers in dressing the bodies for burial.

In the park a temporary platform had been constructed, and from it leading to the city hall an open space was maintained. Members of company F, under Capt. C. J. Casey, kept the line of people back, and every where the best of order prevailed. The pall bearers were contemporaneous implement dealers, with whom J. B. Moore had had intimate dealings during his life time, and were as follows: A. R. Means, J. L. Palmquist, A. V. Jones, Glen Robe, C. J. Burnham and J. P. Wenner, the latter now in business in Clarinda.

The services in the park were listened to with keen attention and silent respect. The burden of sorrow which the community bore was plainly manifest on the faces of the crowd. The music was in charge of Mrs. E. C. Hough. Messrs. H. C. Weber, J. S. Honeyman, H. H Nordyke and J. H. Todd sang a quartette selection, "I Need Thee, Lord," and then followed the scripture reading by Rev. J. W. Taylor. Rev. W. J. Watson offered prayer, and another quartette selection, "Still, Still With Thee," was sung by the quartette. Rev. J. K. Driver of Red Oak then made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion, and then followed Rev. W. J. Ewing's sermon.

Rev. Ewing took for his text the 29th verse of the 32nd chapter of Deuteronomy: "Oh, that they were wise that they understood this; that they would consider their latter end"

He spoke of the tragedy and said that Heaven and Man demanded justice, but warned them, however, to beware of allowing their passions to overrule them in case the perpetrator is caught.

"God hath His mysteries of grace, ways which he cannot tell. He hides them deep like the secret sleep of him He loved so well. 'The hand of an enemy hath done this,' yet the hand of God is over it, and the criminal, too, is in His hands."

In introducing his text Rev. Ewing said: "It is doubtful if any other like number of our community could be found as ready as these to meet such a fate. It is wise to live the life that prepares for the end. May the hand of man never be the instrument which shall thrust any of you into the presence of God. Yet it is always well to consider the end of life and no summons should be louder than this to "set thine house in order."

Wisdom's ways are ways of pleasantness. They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and as the stars forever. How are we living?"

Rev. Ewing then paid a beautiful tribute to the families and their home lives. He spoke particularly with regard to the J. B. Moore family with whom he was intimately acquainted but he stated that all that he said he was sure would apply also in the case of the two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stillinger, and so it does.

He declared that in all respects their lives were as nearly ideal as any might hope to be, and he held them up for the emulation of everybody. Mr. and Mrs. Moore's devotion to their children, and their absorbing interest in them was specifically mentioned. They neglected many social and other duties for the sake of the family, but added that that was not all. The soul and center of that devotion was Religion. Rev. Ewing called attention to their faithfulness in religious duty, both public and private, and stated that he had every reason to believe that the last family act was evening worship, and that almost before the sound of their words had died away their souls were received by Him to whom they had committed themselves.

He spoke words of comfort to the bereaved, and closed with the fitting thought:

"Asleep in Jesus, blessed sleep,
"From which none ever wake to weep—
"A calm and undisturbed repose
"Unbroken by the last of foes."

Then Elder H. D. Fillmore offered prayer, and the quartette sang a third selection, "Shadows." Benediction was pronounced by Rev. Driver.

Procession is Long One

The funeral cortege that wended its way to the cemetery following the services in the park was without doubt the largest the city has ever known, and extended more than a quarter of a mile in length. There were nearly a half hundred carriages in the procession, besides the eight hearse wagons.

At the cemetery Rev. Ewing spoke the words of committal at both services, and at the grave where J. B. Moore and family were laid to rest prayer was fofered by Rev. J. K. Driver, and at the grave of Lena and Ina Stillinger prayer was said by Rev. Taylor.

C. C. Moore, the father of J. B. Moore, was unable to attend the funeral.

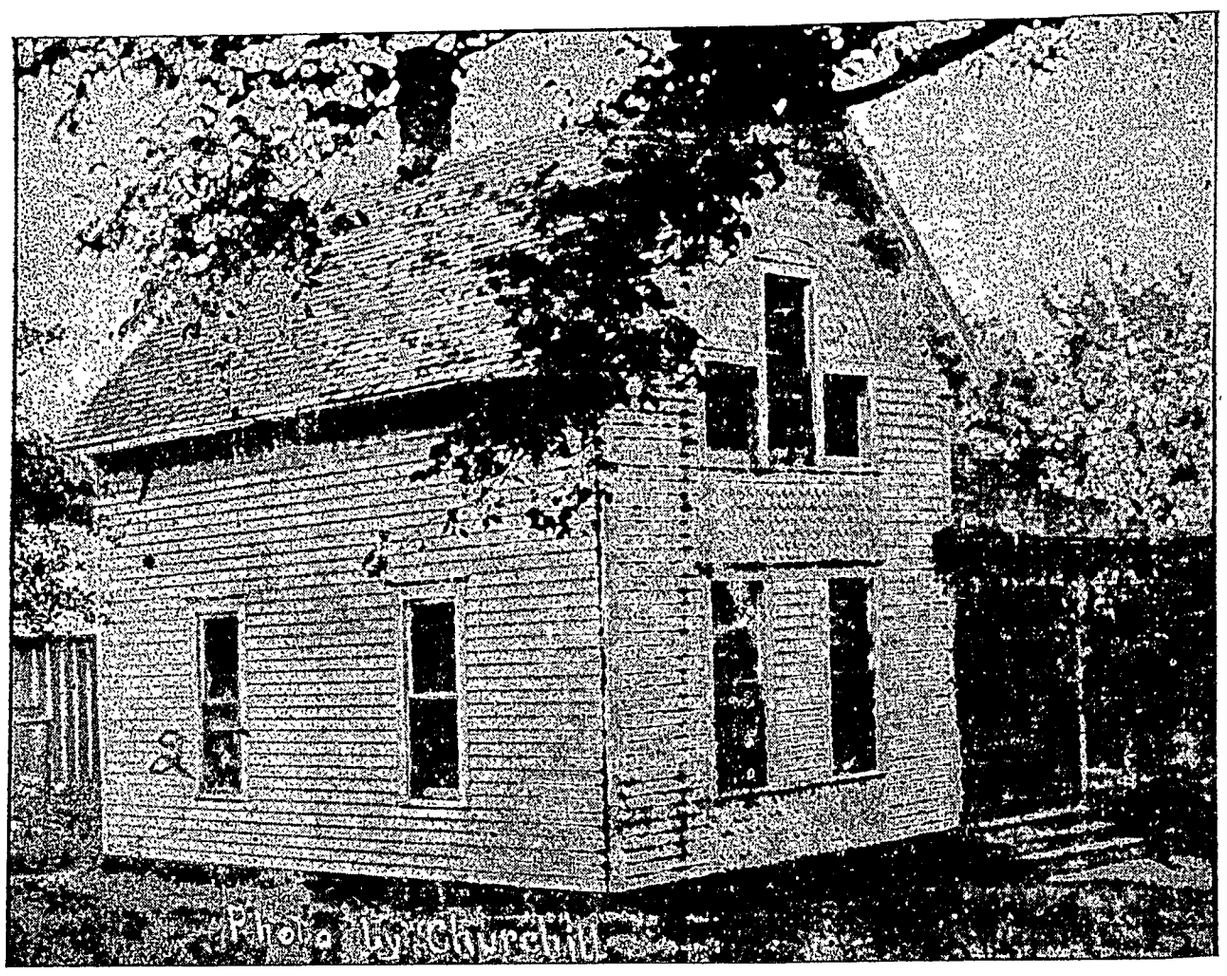

Those from out of town who were present were:

Miss Minnie Moore of Omaha, John Moore of Summerfield, Kansas; Mrs. George Moore and Fred and Alice Moore of Essex; Rev. and Mrs. H. B Spear of Omaha; James Moore of Hanover, Illinois; Miss Elsie Ross of Monmouth; Mrs. David Grey of Hanover, Illinois; Mrs. Carrie Moore and daughter, Miss Lillian, of Essex; Miss Delia Osborne Clarinda; W. W. Arnold and wife, Creston, H. Ralston, J. Elliott and W. H. Miller, of the John Deere Implement Co., at Omaha, and Mrs. J. H. Hutchinson and Mrs. R. Alberts of Omaha.

The Review is equipped to do high class printing on short notice, and we don't shy at anything. Quality talks.

Ice cream—cold drinks—Van's.

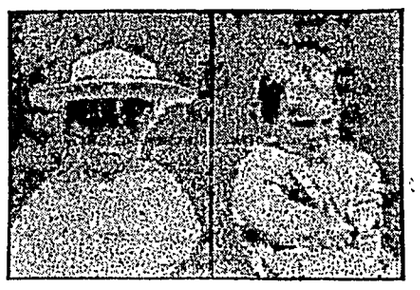

Home of J. B. Moore, and His Children

1.—Room occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Moore. 2.—Room occupied by the Stillinger girls. 3.—Room occupied by the four Moore children. The bloodhounds came out the front door, crossed the porch to the right and turned north; the porch is shown in the picture.

HERMAN MOORE, age 11

BOYD MOORE, age 7 PAUL MOORE, age 5

KATHERINE MOORE, age 10

8 MURDERED IN VILLISCA

(Continued From Page 1)

heard a peculiar noise, which might have been a child's scream. Glen Fisher says a neighbor's dog in his neighborhood made an awful fuss on the night of the tragedy, and Albert Jones says his dog seemed to be worried over something going on in the neighborhood. It was reported that Frank Query and Miss Bessie Anderson, while driving past the T. A. Hugus barn, saw some mysterious figure crouching down there, and a party coming from Brooks in an auto to report having seen a suspicious character, wearing a soft hat and a black beard, on the road, and that the man jumped out of sight when seen. These and other such stories were bruited about the city and made the most of, but they developed nothing, and Tuesday night saw the case as deeply shrouded in mystery as ever, with hope of capturing the murderer centered in one last recourse.

Finger Print Expert Arrives

That one last recourse lay in a genial, mild mannered man who in spite of his affableness of disposition, is a terror to criminals in every state in the union. Under orders of County Attorney W. C. Ratcliff, who early in the proceedings took a directing part in the case, M. W. McClaughry, special agent in the department of justice, bureau of criminal identification, of the U. S. federal prison at Leavenworth, Kansas, arrived in the city Tuesday morning and at once proceeded to make a close investigation for any tell-tale finger prints, if such might exist. The ax and the lamp chimney were placed under guard, and photographs of the impressions thereon were made yesterday by the local photographer, T. R. Churchill. Mr. John Hayes of Kansas City, son of the chief of police of that city arrived yesterday to assist Mr. McClaughry in his work, and the two men have been carefully going over the details of the crime since. Impressions of the finger prints of the dead bodies were taken yesterday but the gentlemen in charge of this work would offer no statement as to the progress of their investigations.

Features of the Tragedy

A feature of the tragedy that has impressed many people is the regretable circumstance that the two Stillinger girls had planned to go to their grandmother's to stay Sunday night, but were urged to come to the Moore home, and their parents gladly gave the children the privilege of accepting the invitation. But for that they very likely would have escaped death.

There have been many sleepless homes in Villisca since the tragedy occurred, and little incidents which heretofore would have escaped notice are magnified, and cause uneasiness when ever they occur. Dr. F. M. Kelsay says that Tuesday night, when he returned home shortly after nine o'clock, he went to the pasture for the cow, and his wife, as she entered the house heard the toilet flushed up stairs. When the docto returned he could hear the water running yet, but a close investigation failed to reveal anything.

R. R. Moore, in company with A. J. Seefeldt, went to Red Oak Monday and interviewed "Aunty" Hamilton, the soothsayer, who has considerable local fame, and after considerable persuasion succeeded in getting a statement from the lady. Mrs. Hamilton described the course the dogs would take, and so accurately did she tell it that it impressed her visitors very much. She stated further that the perpetrator of the terrible deed was a Villisca party, but inasmuch as she told all her story by looking at coffee grounds in a cup it is doubtful if the coffee grounds knew any more about how to find the murderer than the authorities do.

The nearest approach to a tragedy of this nature that has just shocked Villisca, happening in the county, was that about four years ago when Carrie Wilcox, a demented mother, murdered her nine years old son with a butcher knife, and seriously wounded another child, at their home in Pilot Grove township. Mrs. Wilcox is now in the insane asylum.

$2,000 REWARD

For the arrest and conviction of the murderer or murderers of J. B. Moore and family and Lena and Ina Stillinger at Villisca on the night of Sunday, June 9, 1912, the state of Iowa, Montgomery county, citizens of the city of Villisca, and the adjoining community offer a reward approximating $2,000.

By authority of the governor the state of Iowa has offered $300 for each murderer taken dead or alive, the county has offered $500, and citizens of Villisca have increased the amount by over $500. The John Deere Implement company of Omaha telegraphed their willingness to subscribe any amount for this purpose, and citizens of Clarinda and other neighboring towns have sent word of a reward fund being raised. It is likely that by the end of the week the reward will total over $2,000.

STANDING REWARD

There is also a reward of $1200 standing for the apprehension of the Monmouth murderers.

WILL APPEAL LIGHT CASE

Bond for $1,000 Filed to Cover Costs Says Attorney Pringle—City Will Build Electroliers and Bids are Asked for

According to information given out by Attorney C. F. Kimball, legal representative of the city of Villisca, Attorney Ralph Pringle, representing the Villisca Public Service company is authority for the statement that the company has filed its bond in the sum of $1,000 to cover costs or an appeal action from the decision of Judge Wheeler, sixty days ago, to the supreme court of Iowa. Mr. Kimball was in Villisca Tuesday evening and conferred with members of the city council, and was advised by them to proceed on his own initiative in the matter. The time for the removal of the poles was set by Judge Wheeler for Monday of this week, and it is likely, despite the appeal action, that Attorney Kimball will commence contempt proceedings at once.

City Will Install Electroliers

At the regular meeting of the City Council Wednesday evening of last week, the city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for the installation of a complete electric ornamental street lighting system around the park and on Third avenue to the depot, the number of electrolier posts to be not less than 21, and to each bear five lights.

The bids are to be in the hands of the city clerk by June 19, and if all goes well the work of installing the posts should be completed in time for lighting them during chautauqua week in Villisca. The Kansas City representative of the Mid-West Electric company of Omaha, which is affiliated with the General Electric company, was in Villisca Tuesday and will be a bidder for the job.

The electroliers are being installed by the city in conformance with its promise made to Thorpe, but whether Thorpe will get the job of lighting them or not depends on Thorpe. If necessary the city can install a small plant of its own, or it can let the contract to a private individual.

Error In Decree?

That there is an error in Judge Wheeler's decree in the case of the Villisca Public Service company vs. the City of Villisca is believed by attorneys who have read it carefully. In one case he sustains the petition of the electric company asking that the city be enjoined from molesting their poles, any and all of them; in another case he gives the city authority to have those in the paved section removed if not done so by the company on or before June 10. The discrepency is no doubt an oversight and will probably be corrected by the judge when his attention is called to it.

NEWS OF A LOCAL NATURE

Pay your subscription NOW.

Mrs. P. C. Staats and little son, La Verne, of Grinnell came yesterday for a visit of several weeks in the homes of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Bloodgood, and brother, G. R. Bloodgood.

John Swan of southeast of Villisca bought a thirty horse power Oakland automobile of Means & Burnham last week.

There will be preaching at the Christian church Sunday, both morning and evening, by Rev. Dean Kirk, of Drake University. Let all who can attend these services.

If you want a good square meal—go to The Postonian.

Arthur Farquhar and family of Audubon came last Saturday for a few days' visit in the home of his brother, George. They made the trip in their auto.

ARMORY SITE LOCA

H. A. Glackemeyer and bers of the Armory financ tee, who have been comm by telegram, with William of Anacorttes, Washington, ing for the lots on the n of the square, which are b for a tennis court, received age yesterday from Mr. stating that he would acc offer. Now that the loca been decided upon work mence at once for the build

STORE TO RE-OPE

The John Deere Implem which had been under the ment of J. B. Moore, will Friday of this week and t will continue business h anently. E. F. Selley will management of the store fo being.

MEETINGS POSTPON

On account of the gloom er the city by the loss of most prominent families, ing of the Federation Clu was to have been held at of Mrs. J. W. Taylor, last been postponed for one wee For the same reason above the Flag Day exercis the flag raising have been indefinitely.

ARLINGTON HAS NEW

Rev. L. G. J. Kelly is Presbyterian minister of t and commenced his minist Sunday afternoon when he to a good congregation at t house in District No. 10 preach there again Sunday, at three o'clock and every Sunday afternoon afterwar

VILLISCA MARKET

Oats
Corn
Wheat
Cream, 1st grade
Good Butter, in trade
Eggs, cash and trade
Hens and Pullets
Ducks, old
Geese
Roosters
Hogs
Sheep
Butcher Stuff
Will sell reasonable. A.
Cattle
Hides

A Way Ope

Many a Villisca Reader Well

There is a way open to the greatest skeptic. Scores lisca people have made it The public statement of the ience is proof the like of w never been produced before lisca. Read this case of it a citizen.

Mrs. N. E. Graves, Wes street, Villisca, Iowa, says: ingly confirm my former end of Doan's Kidney Pills, given lication in 1910, for the cu made has been lasting. I oc ly use this remedy when fee well but I have never been as I was before I took it. thought that I would die fr ney disease. I had the trou years. The first symptom w in my back, sometimes so I was all bent over. The ki cretions were in bad shape a times the attacks kept me in a week. I lost much weig my whole body swelled ankles and limbs were so that I could not wear my sh my heart palpitated. I often weak that I had to grasp so to assist me in walking. Diz came on without warning a sight failed. I took all kinds edies and was treated by doc was told that my case was A neighbor told me that Doa ney Pills were a fine remedy ney ills and I began using did not notice much improve first, but I continued taki remedy until there was a change. Finally I was cured can say that Doan's Kidne saved my life."

C. B. & Q. TIME TA

Burlington Route

In Effect 12:01 a. m. Nov.

GOING EAST

No. 2	Chicago Flyer	6:
No. 4	Chicago Local	1:
No. 6	Chicago Flyer	9:
No. 8	Mail Only	8:
No. 10	Burlington Flyer	3:
No. 12	Chicago Express	8
No. 14	*Creston Local	6:

GOING WEST

No. 1	Denver Flyer	3:
No. 3	Omaha Local	12:
No. 5	Denver Flyer	5:
No. 7	Mail Only	12:
No. 9	Denver Flyer	8:
No. 11	C. Bluffs Local	7:
No. 15	Mail Only	6:

GOING SOUTH

No. 46	*St. Joe Passenger	6:
No. 48	*Clarinda Pass	9:
No. 28	Clarinda Pass	1:

COMING NORTH

No. 45	*St. Joe Passenger	8:
No. 47	*Clarinda Pass	7
No. 89	Clarinda Pass	6:

* Daily except Sunda