PLEASANTLY SURPRISED

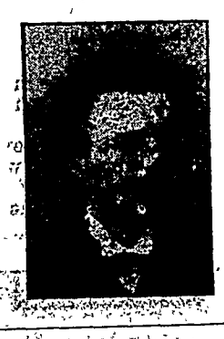

Saturday evening of last week Mrs. Roy Smith and Mrs. R. H. Gourley, who are twin sisters, were given a very pleasant surprise, the occasion being the forty-seventh anniversary of their birthday, and the surprise was planned by their children. Mrs. Gourley and Mrs. Smith were persuaded to attend the picture show on this evening and when they went home by way of Mrs. Gourley's they were much surprised upon arriviving there to find the house full of guests, forty-seven in all. Ice cream and cake was served and each of the ladies were presented with a purse of money. The regale afforded great pleasure to them all. Those who were there from out of town were: Mrs. Harry Miller and son Keith of Lincoln, and Mrs. T. K. Armstrong of Mound City, both ladies being sisters of Mesdames Smith and Gourley.

REV. WATSON SAYS GOODBYE

Preaches Farewell Sermon at Baptist Church Sunday Evening—Will Go In About Ten Days to His Farm Near Malvern to Recuperate

Preaching a last message of "Christ and Him Crucified" Rev. W. J. Watson, for eight years and three months pastor of the Baptist church in this city delivered his farewell sermon to a large congregation Sunday evening. All the churches of the city united in the service, and all the pastors of the city took part in the program. Rev. Watson was paid a high tribute for his faithful service during his ministry here by his brother pastors, and preliminary to his own sermon stated his appreciation for the kindness shown him during his work in Villisca.

Rev. Watson's resignation, which was first announced two weeks ago, comes as a direct result of failing health, and he has found it necessary to leave the city, with its dust and smoke, and to seek a purer climate. He will go to his farm near Malvern, where he may rest and recuperate, and breathe the pure air of out of doors. His family will go with him with the exception of Miss Emma who will remain in Villisca.

The services were conducted by Rev J. W. Taylor, pastor of the M. E church In opening them Rev. Taylor said that for eight years and three months Rev. Watson had conducted the services of the Baptist church very much after his own way, but that now the other fellows were going to take a hand in them, and that they would be a little different. Prayer was offered by Rev. W. J. Ewing, pastor of the Presbyterian church, who invoked God's blessing on the departing minister, his family and his congregation. Mrs E. C. Hough, Miss Fula Finley, Messrs. J. S. Honeyman and J. H Todd sang a very pleasing quartette selection and then followed the scripture reading by Rev. G. W. Maine. Rev. Ewing on behalf of the other ministers of the city spoke a few words commendatory to Rev. Watson saying that although he had been in the city but a few months he had come to know Rev. Watson well and to love him, and he was sorry that we have to give him up. He has been a faithful minister and pastor and the church will sadly miss him At times his burden has been almost greater than he could bear, but he has overcome all obstacles. It was Mr. Ewing's earnest prayer that Mr. Watson should live many years to enjoy the fruits of his labors, a prayer which finds response in the hearts of all who know the retiring pastor "Not only will the church miss him," continued Rev. Ewing, "but the town and community as well He stood for the best things—best for the town, best for the country, best for the community. As a citizen we shall miss him. As a brother minister we shall miss him, his sweet charity, his kindness and good deeds, and his preaching of the plain simple gospel." To Rev. Watson he expressed his genuine regret at seeing him leave, and wished him many years of happiness yet to come. "You have fought a good fight; you have kept the faith," said Rev. Ewing, "well done, good and faithful servant."

In opening his sermon Rev. Watson stated that it had been his desire to slip quietly away, to say goodbye to his friends when he met them, but to avoid a public demonstration of any kind, but he said the other ministers of the city had taken a different view of the matter and that other arrangements had been made. His sermon was one flowing with heart interest and was listened to with closest attention. He advised against modern methods of business shrewdness, cautioned against living beyond our means and warned against the ever increasing fashion of doubting the bible and denying God. "It is not true that if you would succeed in business you must forget God," Rev Watson said, and he condemned the Sunday newspapers for making the American young men so depraved in their tastes, as some seem to be.

As a last message to his hearers he urged them to accept of Christ, and said that if they should forget all else he had told them during his eight and a quarter years in the city to remember that his last words were of Christ and Him crucified. That he might have pleased his hearers more at times by preaching some new theology, or indulging in criticism of the newest work in literature, he did not deny, but he preferred to preach the plain simple gospel, and as a preacher of such he asked to be remembered.

Rev. Taylor then added a few closing remarks, extending his thanks and his sympathy to the speaker of the evening, for, said Rev. Taylor, "it is not easy to preach one's farewell sermon." Rev. Taylor stated that under Rev. Watson's ministry here many souls had been brought into the kingdom, and that the tie binding the pastor to the people is great. Rev. Watson's work did not stop in the pulpit but extended to the homes of the people, and that many times, when it seemed all others must fail, Rev. Watson had gone ahead with words of kindness and cheer which none other could do. He knew the people and they knew him, and he was welcome wherever he were not "So we are sorry to see him go," said Rev Taylor, "but we are glad for the blessings he has brought and left here." Being a Methodist Rev. Taylor said he would like to see every member of the congregation come forward and shake Rev. and Mrs. a. that he would not urge them to do so, and after the services were ended every man and woman in the house went forward and gave them Godspeed from the depths of their hearts.

Rev. and Mrs. Watson are truly beloved of the people of Villisca and their departure from the city is truly and greatly regretted. For the present there will be no regular preaching services in the Baptist church, but Sunday school and other services will be held at the usual hours

KANSAS FORGER IS CAUGHT

Harry George, alias Morgan, a fugitive from justice wanted for forgery at Wellington, Kansas. gave himself up to Chief of Police W. W. Exline at Creston, Thursday night and was held there pending the arrival of Sheriff J. M. Lingenfeller from Wellington.

George came to Creston three months ago and got a job on the paving gang, quitting that because of the close proximity of the officers and going to work on a farm. When Chief of Police Exline went into the Arcade restaurant for supper, the man, who had ordered a meal, accosted him and said he wanted to give himself up—that he couldn't stand being a fugitive any longer. He stated that twice before he had started to take this step, but his heart failed him. He is a married man about 35 years of age, and has a wife and child. His wife had written to him and urged him to surrender, serve his time and come home to live. The wife is now living with her people at Manhattan, Kansas.

Sheriff Lingenfeller arrived in Villisca Friday on No. 4, and conferred with Chief of Police Exline here taking the man back to Kansas without requisition.

Things Good To Eat

appeal to all ages and conditions, and what we eat, as well as how we eat it, is one of the most important and vital problems of existence. Merely to eat is a pleasure of sense only—but to eat the best—the purest—the food that both charms the delicate palate and carries nourishment to the body and mind—is at once a science and an art.
